Last Will of the Graduates . . .

I, Jo Harris, bequeath my position as the most dignified sophomore to that frivolous underclassman, Alan Coe.

I, Kathryn Burton, bequeath my ability to translate Spanish so fluently to all members of next year's Spanish classes.

I, Peggy Sim, bequeath my ability to dance the Big Apple to anyone who is dumb enough to want it.

I, Sara Quincey, bequeath my ability to keep perfect time in dancing to Ann Boyd.

I, Annetta Wellman, bequeath my meek and timid personality to the shy little freshman, Elsie Hamilton.

I, Elinor Miller, bequeath my ability to furnish Coco-Colas to Jimmy Johns, Judson Wines, Bill Culpepper and George Nasworthy—against my will—to some poor sucker.

I, Sara McLean, bequeath my seat in the school supply truck to any freshman who would rather ride than walk.

I, Henri Godio, bequeath my ability to be Miss Wiley's pet without the aid of an English book to Fred Kiehle.

I, Ida May McClain, bequeath my seafaring spirit and ruddy coat of tan to Barbara Trafford.

I, Fred Brown, bequeath my unusual flow of extemporaneous speech upon all occasions to George Campbell.

I, Audre Berkley, bequeath the lovelight in my eyes and my newly acquired pineapple bob to Ted Newell.

I, Mary Meyer, bequeath my ability to remain true to one boy for ten years to Ruth Stults.

I, Kay Wakefield, bequeath my ability to remain a staid married woman, in spite of the charms of the fascinating Junior College boys, to Edna Stewart.

Prophecy for the Graduates . . .

As I gaze into my crystal clear,
I see my friends in turn appear.

Audre Berkley's now the rage
Success is hers upon the stage.

And then comes Miller all in white
Head nurse unto a socialite.

Fred Brown is traveling o'er the land
Conductor of his own swing band.

Kay Wakefield lives a happy life
For she is still the perfect wife.

And Godio is, by the way,
Leo Stokowski's protege.

Quincey, walking book of knowledge,
Is head of history in a college.

Annetta, whose last name is Kunkel,
Serves National Biscuits to her uncle.

Ida May now owns a dock
To which the ritzy boats all flock.

Katie Burton, free from care,
Is married to a millionaire.

Jo is just the same as ever,
Carefree always, worried never.

Sara McLean is now the head
Of Public Instruction, so 'tis said.

Happily married, Mary Meyer,
Sits a'knitting by the fire.

As for Sim, I have not time,
She's the one who wrote this rime.

BASKETBALL

Much enthusiasm has been shown for the college basketball team of this year, 1937-38. The team has played several out-of-town games with various high schools, defeating Boynton, Delray Beach, Lake Worth, and Miami teams. The Dragons belonged to the church basketball league all season and ended the year in fifth place.

TENNIS

For the first time in the history of the Junior College, a tennis tournament was held in April with both boys and girls entered in the events. Ronald Thompson was declared winner of the boys division with his victory over Ted Newell in the finals. Kay Wakefield won the girls singles by default of the other finalist, Josephine Harris. This tennis tournament is to be an annual college sport event. Those participating in the tournament were: Ronald Thompson, John Kirkton, H. A. Lee, Charles Sarau, George Nasworthy, Bill Culpepper, Ted Newell, Dave Wilbur, Louise Douglass, Lillian Eakin, Dorothy Brown, Harriet Sarvis, Audre Berkley, Dorothy Brower, Sarah M. Quincey, Deane Alice Hayes, Peggy Sim, Josephine Harris, Annetta, Wellman, and Kay Wakefield.

RECREATION

The Skating Rink proved to be the most popular rendezvous for all Palm Beach Junior College students during the school session. Not only did the students enjoy noon hours skating, but they also attended several afternoon parties which were planned by the Bellerophon and Spanish clubs for the entertainment of the entire school body.

A dance was sponsored at the skating rink by the Men's Council so that funds might be raised to finance the annual freshman-sophomore banquet. Certainly we may refer to the skating rink as one of the grandest spots for our outside activities.

PARTIES

"Get Acquainted" Party

At the beginning of school the sophomore class sponsored a "get acquainted" party at the Holy Trinity Parish House. There were exciting games, dancing, and refreshments. This party created a feeling of friendliness and good-fellowship among the students of both freshmen and sophomore classes.

Thanksgiving Party

During the Thanksgiving holidays the Co-Ed club sponsored a party in honor of the college boys at the home of Elsie Hamilton. Games and dancing were enjoyed, and refreshments were served. Many of the college alumnae, home from school, attended.

Christmas Party

During Christmas vacation the Men's Council returned the party given for them by the Co-Ed club at Thanksgiving. The boy's party was a beach party held at Singer's Island. A picnic supper was provided, and everyone joined in the festivities.

Beach Party

In the spring the entire student body gave a beach party at Croker's Beach. Beach football and other beach games were greatly enjoyed. A regular beach party supper was served.

Other Parties

The club organizations of the college have entertained at various times with parties for their members and invited guests. The Spanish club held a very gay bicycle ride with a trip to Peanut Island on the Coast Guard cutter as an added event; the Co-Ed club held an exciting week-end party in Lake Worth to which all the Junior College boys came for "Open house"; the Bellerophon club gave a scavenger hunt, beach party, and bicycle ride besides holding regular parties every month.

ASSEMBLIES

During the year 1937-38 a variety of interesting and constructive programs have been presented at the weekly assemblies held every Wednesday at 11:30 in the morning. The college has been honored by such speakers as: Mr. Charles Francis Coe, Mr. Carl Widell, Mr. John Leonard, Mr. Howell Watkins, Reverend Loutitt, Reverend Bolton, Reverend Allen, and Mr. A. Bussey.

In addition to the speakers at the assemblies, the student body holds regular business meetings to discuss the activities of the college.

PLAY

On February 18, the junior college students presented a sophisticated mystery drama entitled "Kind Lady." The cast included: Annetta Wellman, Fred Kiehle, Audre Berkley, Bill Culpepper, Peggy Sim, Edna Stewart, John Osborne, Ida May McClain, Ann Boyd, Charles Sarau, Mary McGee, and Ronald Thompson. The play ably directed by Miss Myra Rowland Wiley was a very successful event with a capacity audience present. The leading roles were taken by Miss Annetta Wellman and Mr. Fred Kiehle. The proceeds of this entertaining play helped finance the annual banquet which was given at the end of the year.

ACTIVITY DAY

In place of the regular college spring holiday usually given in April at most colleges, Palm Beach Junior College held a very gay recreation or "Activity Day." On this day the student body and several teachers motored to Delray Beach. Swimming and water baseball in the Delray pool were enjoyed by everyone—in spite of hordes of horseflies!

A picnic lunch of sandwiches, salad, baked beans, drinks and cake was served at noon. Later in the afternoon many of the students went to the movies in Ft. Lauderdale or West Palm Beach, while others motored to Ft. Lauderdale and Hollywood. To conclude an "Activity Day" of great fun for everyone, the Phi Da Di club gave a dance at the Parish House. Following this was the college girls' week-end houseparty in College Park.

BACCALAUREATE

The Baccalaureate sermon for the graduates was held Sunday evening, May 22, in the Congregational Church. The invocation and benediction were given by Reverend A. M. Depew. Reverend Frank Atkinson preached a very inspiring sermon to the graduates and the large audience. The church was beautifully decorated with shrubbery and flowers. Music for the processional and recessional was played on the organ by Miss Ruth Shockley, and Miss Dorothea Benson sang a solo.

BANQUET AND DANCE

The annual banquet and dance was given to the sophomores by the freshmen on May 25, at the George Washington hotel. Henri Godio, president of the student body, and toastmaster of the occasion, introduced the speaker, Mr. John Leonard. Many of the teachers gave toasts to the graduates. The formal dance in the Blue Room, at which Jess Swan's orchestra played, was attended by all the students and their invited guests.

GRADUATION

The graduation exercises of the Palm Beach Junior College were held Friday evening, May 27, at the high school auditorium. Reverend H. Irving Louitt gave the invocation and the benediction. Mr. Howell L. Watkins, Dean of the College, introduced the speaker, Mr. Russell Morrow, Lake Worth attorney and state representative. Mr. Morrow gave a very inspiring address to the graduates and their many friends present for their graduation.

The processional and recessional were played by Mary and Freddie Lou Suhr and Ann Morrill. Mrs. George Gamble sang.

Mr. John Leonard, President of the Junior College, presented diplomas to the thirteen graduates. On the rostrum were Mr. Carl A. Widell, chairman of the County Board of Public Instruction, Mr. Leonard, Mr. Watkins, and Mr. E. E. Bishop, college registrar.

MY IMPRESSIONS OF THE FRESHMEN

By a Sophomore

Mere doodlers;—mere doodlers;—that's all they are; mere doodlers! Just out of high school, and thinking that Junior College is one big crip course. Guess they got fooled.—Especially by History, English, and Trig. But as a whole, I never saw a better bunch of kids. They are every one as nice and friendly and sweet as can be.

I only wish that they had been with me for two years, instead of only one. More success to you! Here's to bigger and better grades, more success, and oodles of fun next year.

MY IMPRESSIONS OF THE SOPHOMORES

By a Freshman

As a beginning freshman I looked up to the sophomores because they were a whole year ahead of me. My opinion dropped though, when on the first party we had, in the Parish House, they behaved as ridiculous as we freshmen. Then I just laughed and considered myself on the same level with all sophomores—and let it go at that.

But on the whole I believe the sophomores are a "swell" bunch. Here at the end of the year, I'm one who is glad that I can say "I knew them when—" Here's luck to each and every one of you sophomores. You deserve it after two years of struggling through your college work.
